THE COLLEGE OATH

"We will never bring disgrace to this, our College, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will revere and obey the College laws and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this College to those who come after us, greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

Mail Bag

To the Editors
 Gentlemen:

I have been a careful and critical reader of the Northwest Missourian since the summer session of 1963. It is my belief that the paper has thus far completely failed to achieve the standards which one can normally and reasonably expect from a college newspaper.

It is my belief that a college newspaper should be something more than a news sheet. Establishing this belief as a criterion for college papers, we find the Northwest Missourian an immediate failure; the paper is nothing more than a news sheet and of questionable journalistic excellence as such. A college paper, furthermore, should foster 1) an intellectual atmosphere; 2) an artistic atmosphere; 3) an atmosphere of academic freedom; the Northwest Missourian fosters none of these, a phenomenon which is indeed strange since most other college newspapers do foster these atmospheres. Any top flight college paper must foster them. Having made my general criticisms of the Northwest Missourian, I will now offer my solutions. First of all, if the paper is to be something more than a news sheet, either much news will have to be eliminated from the paper's usual four pages, or more pages will have to be added. The extra space is to be used to create the intellectual, artistic, and academic freedom atmospheres.

How is an intellectual atmosphere to be created? At the core of intellectual atmospheres in college papers are articles which interpret, analyze, and criticize. The subject matter of these articles might be national, state, or local governmental affairs, college affairs, religion, trends or problems in our society, or any one of a variety of other subjects.

The recent Literary Supplement to the Northwest Missourian resembles what I would consider an artistic atmosphere. At the heart of an artistic atmosphere is the presentation of the creative works of the student. These works may be poetry, essays, short stories; perhaps even drawings by art students could be reproduced. Book reviews (of a much more comprehensive nature than those usually seen in the Northwest Missourian) and record reviews would round out an artistic atmosphere.

After your publication of the very fine letters of Mr. Murdock and Mr. O'Neill, I would somewhat lessen my criticism of lack of academic freedom. Let me say that academic freedom is the freedom of the student in his intellectual writings or artistic works to say what the faculty, the friends, the administrative hierarchy, and the students of N.W.M.S.C. disagree with. As I have yet to find anyone who holds a monopoly on truth or righteousness, limits to academic freedom should be few.

It is my hope that the staff and advisors of the Northwest Missourian will seriously consider my proposed changes. In view of Mr. Murdock's recent letter, I believe that a poll of student opinion on this matter is definitely called for. It will be with great impatience that I await the flowering of my proposed changes. Sincerely,
 Murray Joekel

EDITORS' NOTE: If this a front of artistic, intellectual, and academically free atmosphere moving into our area, we would advise umbrellas, because someone is all wet.

Bearcat Rally Trips Iowans

MSC's baseball Bearcats exploded a tight contest wide open with a four-run fifth inning rally to defeat Morningside of Sioux City, Ia., 5-2, in the opener for both clubs.

Ron Brumley spelled starter Jim Sanders in the fourth when Morningside loaded the bases with just one out. Brumley retired the side and pitched shut-out ball for 3 1/3 innings. Steve Crowley finished the last two innings.

Speedster Lonnie Irvin, who stole four bases, opened the fifth inning with a walk, stole second base and scored on Randy Wolcott's single. Ron Harris also scored. Brumley beat out a bunt and Bernie Ricono and Jim Jackson belted base raps for MSC's final runs.

The Bearcats committed no errors and were sparked by a fantastic diving, back-hand stop of a sure base hit by second baseman Bob Crawford.

The play drew a round of applause from a large opening day crowd.
